

Doctors for Women in colourful short shorts

University of Saskatchewan medicine graduates in Thailand put out a calendar for the advancement of women

Reported by Ashley Wills

First Posted: Oct 14, 2011 6:11pm | Last Updated: Oct 14, 2011 6:37pm

Six newly graduated doctors from the University of Saskatchewan put together an impromptu photo calendar for charity called "Doctors for Women 2012".

The project snowballed from a post-graduation trip to Thailand, after a beach photo shoot turned out particularly well.

"The idea for the calendar came up as we were walking past one of the stores that were selling those multi-coloured short shorts," said Dr. Tyler Maltman, one of the doctors involved.

The U of S grads have partnered with The Betty Ann Heggie Womentorship Foundation which strives to inspire women to pursue their careers, and all money raised will go toward providing charitable mentor guidance for women.

The calendars are being sold at various businesses around Saskatoon, including BackSide BoardShop, Point Optical downtown, Swank Shoe Lounge and Bridge City Auto.

Edited by News Talk Radio's Jared Knoll.